Metropolitan Opera Chance to Miss Goff M.S.T.C. Alumni

To Appear In Kansas City
Tuesday Night With The Philharmonic

May Sing Here

Miss Goff Will Go to Germany to Perfect Her German
Dialect

President Lamkin is negotiating with Miss Goff for a concert to be presented here next Thursday night. At present no official statement can be made. President Lamkin has assured that every effort possible is extended.

Miss Christine Goff, gifted contralto who has had a successful audition at the New York Metropolitan opera and who will study in Germany, is a former student of the College here and was heard many times by Maryville people when she sang in church choirs here. Miss Goff will sing leading contralto roles with the Metropolitan opera next season if her German diction can be perfected in time, according to word received by her friends in Kansas City where she studied music.

Miss Goff who is now living in New York, has wired her acceptance of an invitation by Karl Krueger to appear as a soloist at a concert of the Kansas City Philharmonic orchestra February 12 in Convention hall. It will be her first public appearance before she sails for Europe.

Miss Goff came from Cameron, her home, to Maryville to attend the College here about 1924 to take training for a teacher. It was while here that her friends recognized she had a splendid mezzo contralto voice and urged her to study music. Miss Goff said that it was while attending College in Maryville that Miss Goff became ambitious to become a singer but it was only by dogged persistence that she has been able to reach her present status. Miss Goff had to work for her education and while here she underwent an operation from which it was thought she would not survive. Since leaving Maryville Miss Goff has been working for her musical education. She received her B. S. degree in Education here in 1927. She was a graduate of the Cameron high school and one time attended the Missouri Wesleyan College. At the College here the major was history and minor English.

Kirkville Team

Here Tonight to Meet the Bearcats

Bulldogs Have Shown New Life and Ability in Recent Games.

Bearcats Defeated Bulldogs in Opening
Conference Game by a Score of 21 to 18

The Bearcats have spent a busy week preparing for tonight's game with the Kirkville Bulldogs. Coach Stalcup has been working on new plays to use against them tonight. Stress has been placed on shooting free throws as the Bulldogs have not shown up too well in this department. Passing has also been stressed a great deal.

Ray Brown, freshman center and forward, appears to have clinched himself a place in the Bearcat starting lineup. Brown has exhibited a lot of fight and a vigilant ball hawk. He will take the place vacated by Orval Johnson whose shoulder was knocked down in the Springfield game and who had just recovered from that when he was knocked down with the measles. Johnson probably not be in uniform again this season.

The Bearcats barely nosed Kirkville at Kirkville three weeks ago, and there is strong reason to believe that the Bulldogs are considerably more powerful than they were then. In fact, more than a point or two is likely to separate the two teams when they meet tomorrow night.

Paul St. John will probably start at left end, with Bud Green in reserve. Leo Seawater will join Brown on the right line, and both regular guards, Ed Wright and Joe O'Connor, are expected to open the engagement. Paul Jones, Red Seabaugh, Stew Sheldon, and some others may get into action.

The Sigma Tau and Gray's Bas-reliefs will play a preliminary game to decide the second-half champion of the Intramural League. Gray's won the first half but the Sigma Tau have shown great improvement and are considered a fair chance in tonight's game.

Under Hardin, Edra Kepler and Johnson are ill this week.

New Youth Movement Gains Headway With Support of College People, Says Professor

New York, N. Y.—(NSFA)—There are now the beginnings of a real Youth Movement in this country," said Dr. William Trufant Foster in a radio address under the auspices of the National Student Federation yesterday. Dr. Foster, director of the Polk Foundation for Economic Research, former president of Reed College, and member of the Board of Advisors of the N. S. F. A., spoke on the question, "Is There An American Youth Movement?"

Dr. Foster compared the youth of today with the fresh runner in an ancient torch race who received the torch from a weary runner and carried it on keeping the flame alive.

"Youth in this country now of college age will fall utterly to meet the needs of their generation," he said, however, "if they do nothing more than carry forward undimmed the torch which is handed to them by the generation now, fortunately, passing out of power." "In these critical times," he said, "when youth is dumfounded by the paradox of poverty in plenty, this simple procedure is not sufficient, for the youth believes that the answer of the older generation to the problem of paralyzed industry is a policy of laissez faire."

"Youth never wants to leave things alone," he continued. "It wants to act. Up to the present time, Youth, in the United States, has been inarticulate. This is partly because of its instinctive desire for adventure has been suppressed by an educational system which has been unfavorable to freedom of thought. But the beginnings of a real Youth Movement in this

LaMar to Resume Duties In Publicity Office Monday

Mr. LaMar Has Been Working on His
Ph. D. in Columbia University

Stephen G. LaMar, director of Publicity and Information, who has been studying for the past six months at Columbia University in New York City, has returned to assume his duties at the College. Mr. and Mrs. LaMar arrived here early this week after a six-day trip from the east. He reported heavy snow and ice storms throughout the first three days of the trip. The remainder of the trip was made in fair weather.

Mr. LaMar left the College early in September to do further work on his Ph. D. degree. He and Mrs. LaMar took up a residence near the university where they remained until the first of this month. They were visited late in December by the Maryville delegates to the National Student Federation Congress at which time Mr. LaMar showed the boys many interesting New York sights.

During his absence Miss James has handled the Alumni Association work, which had formerly been taken care of by Mr. LaMar. Mr. LaMar will assume these duties as well as the Publicity office work, next week.

Gospel Team to Kingston and Chillicothe Sunday

Edward Morgan Will Be the Speaker for the Church Services—
Quartet to Sing

The gospel team of the Student Y. M. C. A. will conduct services Sunday morning at the Community church in Kingston, and that night will appear at the large Christian church in Chillicothe. This is the monthly trip of the team.

All music for the trips are in charge of C. James Velie, director of the College Conservatory of Music. The College quartet, composed of Morris Yaden, Graham Mallotte, Wayman Smith and Ray Dull will sing Sunday. Mr. Yaden will play a violin solo and there will be vocal solos by Mr. Mallotte, Mr. Dull and Mr. Smith. All accompaniments will be by Mr. Velie.

Mr. Morgan will be the speaker for the church services. In addition to the night service in Chillicothe, the gospel team is to have charge of the Christian Endeavor program at 6:30 o'clock. Leland Thornhill, vice-president of the Y. M. C. A., will speak before this body. George Walter Allen will preside at the services.

Those making the trip have assigned parts in the services. The group, besides those mentioned, will include William Bills, Buel Tate, Harry Thiesfeld, Harold Person, Hubert Harris, Joe Stephenson, Henry Robinson, Paul Hauber, Ralph Mercer, Raymond Hammond, Charles Plowman and Walter Wade.

The boys are to be guests at a basket dinner in Kingston following the morning service, and that evening in Chillicothe will be entertained at a young peoples luncheon.

An Interesting Glance At Rollo Walt Brown

Rolla Walter Brown spoke Monday night in the College Auditorium to several hundred people on the topic, "The Creative Spirit in Life." The audience gave close attention to his lecture which lasted over an hour. Mr. Brown dealt on very practical subjects in the realm of the creative spirit. He pointed out the great need for more beauty and harmony in our own surroundings which could be possible if the creative spirit is allowed to blossom. In our cities the noise, the dirt and smoke; in the country the excessive billboards which hide nature's beauty, are all blotting out the creativeness in life.

Today, however, it is hard for the youth with a creative spirit to have a chance to express himself fully. First he is different from the average person who leads a routine life and hence is called a fool. Then, if he has the persistence to keep on he may lack the money to express his ideas to others. Creativeness in life, whether in poetry, painting, or inventiveness, serves two purposes (1) It gives the person a chance for his own ideas to be expressed, and, (2) It creates an atmosphere for the truly talented (Continued on Page 4)

Coronation Featured At Residence Hall Carnival

Dance Followed the Mid-Way Shows
With Music by Bethany
Orchestra

The first Residence Hall carnival, which it is hoped will become an annual event, was presented last Saturday night, February 3, in the basement of Residence Hall. The Carnival began with the coronation of the queen, Miss Bernice Pence, and rushed on the entire evening, through sideshows, bingo games, duck ponds, bowling alleys, and a fashion show, and was climaxed by a dance.

Perhaps the best attended game on the midway was the old standby, Bingo. The crowd fought and raved around the bingo counters for some two hours and a half. The dance of the dwarfs likewise drew its regular crowds. The bowling alley shared in a good play.

The carnival was well attended and the proceeds were very satisfactory. The coronation of the queen, Miss Pence was very picturesque but the hit of the evening was a burlesque given by the "Hashslingers."

The merchants who contributed articles for the carnival were: Cumins Furniture Co., Blue's Knicks' Townsend's, Graham's Woolworth's, Lewis' Superior Cleaners, Ideal Cleaners, Spic and Span Cleaners, Dick's Lunch, Fields Clothing Co., Burton's, Gaugh and Evans, Haines, Montgomery Clo. Co., Montgomery Shoe Co., Bee Hive Shoe Store, Remus, Schlitz Cafe, Jones Drug Co., Nodaway Drug Co., Morning Glory Store, Buhler's, Marcel, Crow, photographers, Maryville Drug Co., Granada, Blue Moon Cafe, Corwin Murrin, Price Furniture Co., Hages Beauty Shop, Eugenia Beauty Shop and Maryville Shoe Co.

Debaters From Four States Here Last Saturday in a Non-Decision Tournament

Sixty representatives from eleven schools from Kansas, Nebraska, Iowa, and Missouri, participated in a debate tournament, held at the State Teachers College last Saturday morning. Those colleges that were represented were Doane, Hastings, Iowa Central, Iowa State Teachers, Kirkville, Tarkio, Washburn, M. S. T. C., Peru and William Jewell.

The debating contests were arranged in a series of four rounds by Mr. Miller. After each contest the teams returned to Social Hall where they received their new assignments. This method was followed until the four rounds had been completed, after which the various coaches were allowed to arrange matches with teams of their own choosing. This was listed as round five. Probably one of the most outstanding debates of the afternoon was the round five debate between the Park College girls and the Hastings, Nebraska, girls' team. The arguments and presentation of both of these was exceedingly good, and was well handled. At the conclusion of the match, the Nebraska coach conceded the victory to the Park girls.

Mr. John Barnes of Park College, gave constructive criticisms on several of the debates.

The chairmen of the various debates were: William Bennett, Ford Bradley, Carlyle Breckenridge, Kenneth Brown, Lorance Catterson, Wendell Dalbey, M. H. Elliot, Leona Hazelwood, Eugene Huff, Harold Humphrey, K. M. Manifold, Herman Miller, Mildred Mumford, Audrey Porter and Joe Stephenson.

The girls of Residence Hall will entertain at a formal dinner February 13. Mr. and Mrs. Davis, Mr. and Mrs. Stalcup, Mr. and Mrs. Wells, Miss Lowery, Dr. Painter, Miss Lair, Mr. and Mrs. Kelly, Mr. Seller, Mr. and Mrs. Rickenrode and Dr. and Mrs. Mehms will be the guests.

Mr. Miller Reports Fine Trip Thus Far Except For Tire
Troubles

Word from the College debate team now on its annual northern tour, gives an interesting account of the trip thus far. Mr. Miller in a telegram to the Missourian yesterday, said that the team had encountered little ice and snow but had hit some zero weather at the extreme northern end of their route. No car trouble had slowed down the trip any outside of six punctures. At Brookings, S. D., professor George McCarty entertained the boys with a supper. At Moorhead, Minn., the group was given a party by O. D. Murray, former Maryville student. According to Missourian records, Mr. Murray is a faculty advisor of the Moorhead college publication. At the University of North Dakota, in Grand Forks, Mr. Paul Barr, friend of Mr. Miller, entertained for Ed Morgan, Dwight Dalbey and Mr. Miller.

Trouble was encountered on the trip to Sioux Falls and the trippers lost their way.

Mr. Miller has adopted the plan this year of leaving a team at one college and taking the others on to another debate the same evening, picking up the first team on the return trip.

The following is a list of the debates thus far:

Omaha University, affirmative, Morgan and Dalbey, (MSTC); negative Harry Griffin and Hyman Finkelstein (Omaha); second debate, Affirmative, Bernice Persinger and Josephine Carroll (Omaha); negative Rowan and Timmons, (MSTC).

Interesting Books Have Been Added to the Rental Library

Many Books Written on Very Recent Subjects Should Prove Popular.

Book by Lloyd C. Douglas Should Be
Of Special Interest to Students
Who Heard Him

The College Bookstore Library has proved so popular that new books have been added to those already on hand. The following is a list of the books just received. The reviews were taken from various magazines.

No Second Spring
Janet Beith

"Two things recommend this book immediately. It is the winner of the twenty-thousand dollar prize, the largest ever offered by a publisher for a novel, and the author is the niece of Ian Hay. . . . Miss Beith possesses a lovely touch and a rare artistic restraint in her writing which etches the figures of this story on our memories."

As the Earth Turns
Gladys Carroll

"For a New Englander 'As the Earth Turns' is very much like a letter from home. A good bulky letter, full of news that will electrify none but gives a continual play to the pleasures of recognition if the reader is a member of the family. A New England letter, honest, homely, friendly."

Forgive Us Our Trespasses
L. C. Douglas

"Dinny Brum had inherited from his young mother, who died when he was born, a consuming hatred for his environment, his family, and conventional religion. In time he becomes a successful writer of cynical journalism but he loses the girl he loves because of the conflict between their ideals of love. Then he discovers a letter in an old desk of his mother's, which by changing his view of the past and giving him a new attitude toward his enemies, brings regeneration."

New Russia
Eddy

"Undenably, Dr. Eddy's trip to Russia last summer convinced him more than ever of the permanent and positive values in the great experiment. The best sections of the book are those describing the new attitude toward criminals, who are lodged in an ever-diminishing number, not of prisons but of 'houses of redemption,' and those dealing with the systematic education of young and old in the new way of life, in a land that now publishes more books each year than England, Germany and America combined."

WE ARE NOT TO BLAME

The charge has been made and is being made by the editor and business manager of the Tower that the annual Queens Ball failed as a financial venture because the Missourian did not furnish the necessary publicity. The Missourian printed what information it had on the matter the week of the dance. That is the most that any paper can do. If the Tower bosses desire publicity, the Missourian staff is open to accept same but not to the point of writing elaborate articles for the benefit of a personal profit dance. This is a newspaper, not a promotion bureau. Everyone in school knew that the Tower Queens Ball would be held on the night announced. The editor and business manager of this paper waive all blame for the financial or any other shortcomings of the above mentioned dance.

Further criticism has come, that the Missourian should go out and get more college news rather than wait for or expect it to be brought in. This particular point has been aired by the student president as well as others, yet the student senate has offered no inducement to the staff members or other students to give their time over to news chasing. If the student body wants more news in the paper then it is up to them to write articles when asked to. Only a few whose names appear on the staff list, have really done any work, the rest has been complaint. News contributions instead of squawks will make the Missourian a better paper. How about it?

BREEZY ASSEMBLIES

The Monday assembly was a windy affair, not from the point of the speaker, but the "small cyclone" that arose somewhere behind the curtain. It was most too much to bear when the Seniors, after sitting in the arctic "blow" for an hour were stampeded by the sophs and freshmen.

EAST SIDERS

The East Siders Pep Squad has now resumed activities. Members of the Green and White Peppers are deserting their own organization and joining this new and competent boosters club. Next fall two football men will wonder why there is no support for the football team. With all of the support that they are lending this new organization they should expect next year to be a banner year for the football rooters.

ARE YOU A MORON?

Must you be policed in order that you refrain from cheating on examinations? Psychologists tell us that there is a definite correlation between socially desirable character traits and intelligence. Is your intelligence level so low that you cannot develop these traits?

Persons of low grade intelligence accept as their only incentive for any conduct immediate reward, and the only thing which will prevent a social conduct is immediate punishment. The rewards of honesty are in the future; they are in the creation of a socially acceptable and a socially desirable personality. So you have so little intelligence that you cannot value the future goal above the immediate reward?

College students think of themselves as intellectual aristocrats. They are the cream of the crop. They constitute, intellectually, the upper strata of their generation. Why, then, should it be that the moral and intellectual standards of the student body should be so low that the Honor system would not be a success at S. T. C.?

Education Department

Part 4. The State and Education—The National Education Association believes that the control and the organization of education are state functions. Upon the state falls the major responsibilities of organizing a system of schools, preparing the teachers, providing adequate financial support, and maintaining the necessary educational standards. The quality of future citizenship depends largely upon the effectiveness of the state in discharging these functions.

State school system—Each state should provide and support from public funds a system of free schools beginning with the kindergarten and extending through the university.

Adult education—Opportunities should be provided for adults in every state to enrich the cultural aspects of life, to prepare for parenthood, to develop personal talents, to improve or to re-educate vocational abilities, to remedy deficiencies in education, and to learn the responsibilities of social life.

Rural education—Children in rural communities should be provided with an education as generously supported as that given to urban children. State and national school authorities are urged to study curriculum needs and possible administrative reorganizations, particularly of rural education.

Special education—Gifted, exceptional, and handicapped children should receive instruction, guidance, and special care in accordance with their respective needs. Surveys by local, state, and national authorities are needed to provide the basis for an adequate educational program for these children.

Guidance—Provisions should be made for systematic programs of guidance and counseling in state school systems. The programs should be balanced so as to include the educational, the social, and the vocational problems of the individual student. Competent persons, prepared in the field of counseling, should be employed whenever possible.

Vocational education—Every state should provide a complete program of vocational education for youths and adults. Classes should be organized and maintained as integral parts of local school systems. Part time and evening classes should be provided whenever necessary.

Teacher preparation—Upon the preparation, the character, the selection, and the placement of the teacher depends in large measure the ultimate success of education. It is important that the preparation of teachers should be adequate, rich in professional and subject matter content, and adapted to the demands of actual service.

Certification standards—Professional and academic requirements for beginning teachers should be increased and enriched in many states. The minimum standard recommended by the Association is four years of preparation beyond the high school.

Tenure of service—Teachers should hold their positions during competence and good behavior. There should be legislation to protect teachers from discharge for political, religious, personal, or other unjust reason, but the laws should not prevent the dismissal of teachers for incompetence, immorality, or unprofessional conduct.

Retirement systems—To promote efficiency in public education every state should adopt a sound plan for the retirement of aged and disabled teachers.

School finance—Adequate support of a modern system of schools requires a system of taxation which conforms to the best theory and practice. Continued research should be made to find and to disseminate the facts about the best sources for local and state governmental revenues. Such unbiased studies of public finance should be followed immediately by legislation which will provide adequate support for education. The units of taxation and the distribution of public funds should insure a reasonable minimum education for every child.

State department of education—It is an obligation of each state to provide a state department of education equipped to certify as to the adequacy of local programs of education in meeting state standards. This state department should, through experimentation, stimulate local communities to provide increasingly more adequate programs of education, to the end that the state minimum program may from time to time be advanced.

State education associations—The splendid growth and development of state associations for teachers is hailed as evidence of an alert profession. Under wise leadership these groups can be sources of strength to the educational programs of the states.

Part 5. National Relations in Education—The National Education Association believes that there are functions in the education of children which only the national government can discharge. General recognition should be given to the Federal government's obligation to unite, to guide, to stimulate, and to support education in the interest of a high type of national citizenship.

Federal aid—Funds should be provided by the federal government to assist the states in making an adequate education available to every child and adult. Special funds should be available to prevent the interruption of education in areas devastated by

FISH STORIES

Tropical Fishes as Pets
By Christopher W. Coates
Since the jig-saw craze is now in obsolescence, the efficient American in sedulous pursuit of a displacement hobby has combined his sporting lust and parlor proclivities into the convenient mania for collecting and breeding tropical fish. Because of this now so widespread obsession, Mr. Christopher Coates, keeper of the department of tropical fish at the New York Aquarium, has felt the direct necessity of offering information and guidance, probably not so much to encourage an ephemeral fancy of a nation, as to protect and insure good care for his dear little friends of the sea.

Personally, as far as pets are concerned, anything in the quadruped line with a preference toward a canine model, would be far more desirable, since there is nothing more futile, shall we say, than leading a Molliesia Sphenops about on a leash. But if you must be a fish monger, this enlightening book, with its simple and non-technical language is an invaluable reference and will give you incisive information which will soon make of you a leading social and sporting figure in a country which has so spontaneously gone fishy. You will be able to talk fish with the best of them. Increase by breeding, correct chemical balance of water, treatment of fish ailments, and knowing which breeds of fish can and which cannot live happily together in one big family, will no longer be problems. With the aid of the fifty-six half-tone illustrations in this volume you will be in a capacity to distinguish between a Leibes reticulatus and a Crenuchus spilurus with the same discriminating eye that now so deftly catches the difference between a hummingbird and a dynosorus.

floods or other widespread disasters. The several states should use these funds for the foregoing purposes without federal dictation.

Education by radio—Legislation should be enacted which will "steal" for the uses of education, a reasonable share of the radio broadcasting channels of the United States. State and national school officials should develop the techniques for using the radio effectively in education.

Qualifications for naturalization—The minimum requirement for naturalization should include the ability to read and to write the English language understandingly, a general knowledge of American local, state, and national government, the desire to exercise the right of suffrage, and evidence of mental and economic competency. Provisions should be made to receive all persons into citizenship with suitable ceremony.

Department of education—The federal government should promote education in the states by the dissemination of authentic information on problems of general educational concern. The Association believes that this service can be rendered best by a department of education with a secretary in the President's cabinet.

Office of education—The research activities and the informational services of the Office of Education deserve the sympathetic interest of all teachers. Until Congress establishes a department, the funds of the Office of Education should be augmented to the end that its efforts may be increasingly effective.

Parent movements—National movements among parents to safeguard the welfare of children and to bring the school and the home in closer cooperation should enlist the enthusiastic support of teachers.

Illiteracy—The number of persons who are illiterate, or who use the fundamental skills with great uncertainty, presents an insistent challenge to laymen and teachers alike. Illiteracy defeats the practices of democracy and hinders the development of world understanding. The Association commends local, state, and national efforts to eradicate this menace to national progress.

Part 6. International Relations in Education—The National Education Association believes that improvement in communication, international business relations, and social intercourse have established many common international interests. In view of these actualities, education should prepare children and adults for cooperative living in a community of nations.

International exchange—Provision should be made for the exchange of students, professors, and educational publications. State school legislation should make such international exchanges possible and effective.

Curriculum—A modern program of education should include the study of the history, the interests, and the problems of other nations. This study should include such instruments of world understanding as the organizations for international cooperation, the courts for arbitration, and the treaties of peace.

World education associations—Local, state, and national associations of teachers should be linked internationally for the systematic exchange of professional knowledge, visits, and conferences.—The Journal of the National Education Association.

"PA" SHEDDON BEATS "POP" McDONALD BY TWO WEEKS AND TWO POUNDS

Both fathers doing nicely; both clothed in wreathed smiles; both having old vests extended for the newly acquired chest expansion.

T. James Smith never speaks unless spoken to—we wonder who first spoke to him years ago.

"Speed" Sullivan and "Lightning" Richards, the two fastest men on the CWA campus work—and they are also high priced—they receive 45 cents per shovel for each shovel full of cinders turned.

Margaret Humphreys has discovered there's nothing like "walking in" unobserved.

We understand that Praisewater is due to pass another course.

We all agree with "Humps"; two more loud, lusty, boisterous, vociferous, nasty, premeditated, unassuming, whole-hearted, sonorous, blase, good old Bearcat Boos for the village of Springfield. Maybe we can't take it, however, we are not satisfied that Springfield can either take it or give it.

East siders have failed. Our sympathies are extended, however, in a very mediocre manner. Some kind person should hang a wreath of forget-me-nots in the vicinity of their old stomping grounds. My! My! and a Tut!

Doris Logan had a nickle; but the nickle got lost and so little Doris had no candy bar—that is, until a certain heroic person came to her rescue.

THE TATTLER

Ivan Slagle came sauntering into assembly yesterday chewing on some candy. If exercise is good for the jaws that boy is really in shape.

Joe nearly caused a knock-down and drag-out Wednesday in his rush to sit by Mary in assembly.

Spire has informed Mr. Cofer that one may injure a hog by looking in its eyes. To what type of hog Faye was referring, whether it be human or otherwise, the Tattler can't find out.

Mr. Westfall asked of the students to name some countries in So. America. One student (E. W.) spoke up and said, "Texas." If that is the case, I wouldn't be surprised if I woke up in Europe some morning.

The Tattler wonders who Arthur met at the east door of the building about 6:30 or 7:00 Friday evening. Do you know? Ah—I know. It was someone with dark hair and eyes and was wearing a dark coat.

Miss Frankum stated that the human brain was run by electricity. She asked Helen G. a question that she couldn't answer. One of the students remarked that Helen's cell was down.

Wanted: A pal of the opposite sex. She must have black hair and brown eyes and be about five feet tall. If you can't come personally please write. Homely and lonely.—J. A.

There should be a law passed in C. H. S. that those taking shorthand should not take advantage of those who are not acquainted with the subject. (Just another one of Otis Booth's ideas.)

The Tattler wonders what Mary thought when Wilma gave Joe a note with a lot of English assignments on it.

It's queer Charles doesn't go to science class on time any more—maybe because W. B. changed Science classes.

Why doesn't the study hall teacher move Herschel as well as Howard—you know—birds of feather flock together. Don't tell Howard this—we talked about something after he deft.

I wish to thank the Tattler for keeping such close count on the Fine-Boy problem. I also want to tell the Tattler that he or she is about three weeks behind the times.

Respectfully yours,
Robert Boyer.

Mr. Boyer:

This is to inform you that if the Tattler were interested in the problem, he or she would keep better tab on it. And as for being three weeks behind—it is without a doubt the student help who have not observed the latest events (those of the past 3 weeks.) If you will inform the Tattler of such instances more promptly he or she will be able to keep up with the times.

Your friend,
The Tattler.

My Dear Public

Dear Public . . . :

Here we are after another week of hub-bub etc. . . . After the Warrensburg game last week every one was so weak that they could hardly drag off the floor. . . . Looked more like the Iba games than anything I've seen this year. . . . Well did an excellent job of officiating, which brings to mind the fact that Larry Quigley will toot the whistle this week. . . . And next week when Springfield comes here I hope that there are two officials. . . . Now then . . . SPRINGFIELD STANDARD. . . . Student publication at Southwest State Teachers College had a rather nasty editorial last Friday concerning a statement in the Missouriian "that the Springfield basketball team has adopted football tactics." I wrote that article and want it known that I am still of the same opinion. . . . I have the word of the Warrensburg players in the matter as well as a sport column from the Springfield daily paper to the effect that the Kirksville game was a knock-down, drag-out to back up my statement. . . . When the daily paper in one's own town goes to point out the "battle spirit" then there must be something to the remark after all. . . . I'm sure that if Hereford Kelso, Standard editor, had thought twice he would not have made a statement he can't back up. . . . The editorial was a swing below the "foul" line but it went wild because other M. I. A. schools know the truth of the matter if their teams have played there. . . . After all Kelso why start a fight? ?

Now for the big event of this column for some time . . . I TAKE GREAT-EST PLEASURE IN PRESENTING THE 1934 MOST POPULAR GIRL, . . .

MISS EUDOR SMITH
(AT AGE OF 10)

This beaming bit of joy was, at the time her picture was taken, editor of the sixth grade newspaper of the class to which she belonged. I regret that I have no junior picture of Mr. Phelps. . . . Hommond hung his pin. . . . I lost Dan Blood's trunk key. . . . Chub Yates is CASSting around for a new foothold.

GOOD TASTE—YOU CAN'T MISS IT

Luckies' finer smoother taste comes from the finest Turkish and domestic tobaccos. We use only the center leaves for they are the mildest, most tender leaves. And every Lucky is so round, so firm, so fully packed.

Direct from the Metropolitan Opera House
Saturday at 1:55 P.M., Eastern Standard Time, over Red and Blue Networks of NBC, LUCKY STRIKE will broadcast the Metropolitan Opera Company of New York in the world PREMIERE of the new American opera "MERRY MOUNT."

Always the Finest Tobacco and only the Center Leaves

NOT the top leaves—they're under-developed—they are harsh!

The Cream of the Crop
"The tenderest, mildest, smoothest tobacco"

NOT the bottom leaves—they're inferior in quality—coarse and always sandy!

Bearcats Come From Behind to Defeat the Mules

After a Poor First Half the Bearcats Come Back to Win.

Praisewater and Brown Lead the Bearcats to a Hard Earned Victory.

Last week the Bearcats held true to form and came from behind in the closing minutes to take a hard-earned victory from the Warrensburg Mules. The only time that the Bearcats were in the lead was at the close of the game.

During the first half the Mules had their own way. The score at the half was 14 to 5 in favor of the visitors. Brown, Mule center, had been the strength of the Mules. His play under the basket was outstanding. He was working hard under both buckets. Taking the ball from the Bearcat backboard and tipping the shots under his own. Pearson also was causing much trouble.

However, at the half, Coach Stalcup undoubtedly pointed out the weakness and the Bearcats were quick to put the plans into effect. Slowly the team narrowed the gap. Praisewater and Brown did the scoring in this final rush. The Mules did not become erratic but persistently tried to play their own game. In the closing minutes it seemed as if they were sure to tie the score. Brown got ahead of the entire Bearcat team with the ball. However, St. John made a sensational play by batting the ball out of bounds after Brown had shot.

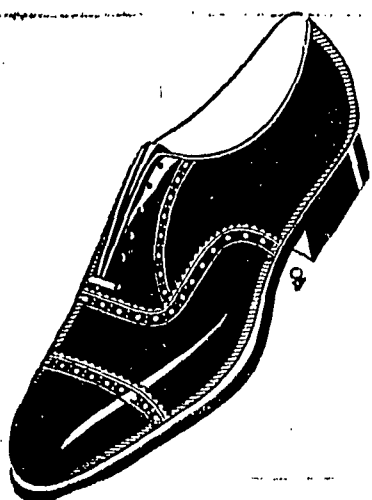

The game was not marred by fouls as has many of the games this year. Wulf, former Hillyard, kept the boys well in hand and called one of the best games seen here. At times the game was slightly rough but it seemed to be fairly equal.

person to develop himself and give something immortal to the world. "The creative life is adventurous" said Mr. Brown. "However, one must be able to see. Some are too sophisticated to see. Others lack the imaginative quality. Genius is the keenness of observation. All great men before becoming specialized in their particular fields have been keen observers of the things about them. It takes both enthusiasm and wisdom. Many people think they have plenty of time. Life doesn't begin at forty, but

Mr. Brown gave several examples of people whose writings are becoming recognized and in time may become nationally known.

Those untidy habits come from jangled nerves

It's bad enough to look untidy—ill-groomed.

But it's twice as bad when you think that those nervous habits are a sign of jangled nerves... a friendly signal that says, "Find out what's the matter."

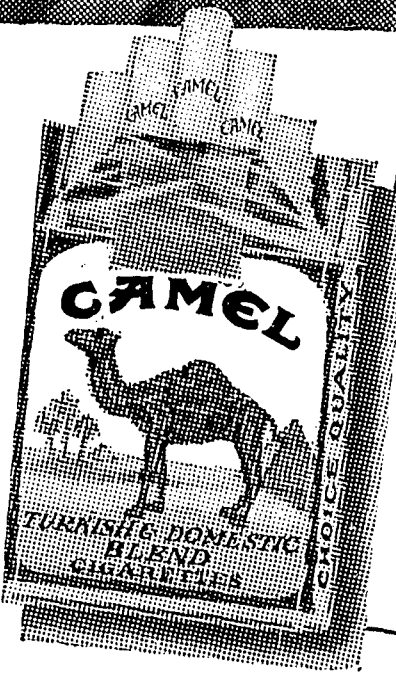

So, if you catch yourself musing your hair, biting your nails, chewing pencils—or suffering from any other of those countless little nervous habits—

Get enough sleep and fresh air—find time for recreation. Make Camels your cigarette. You can smoke as many Camels as you please, for Camel's costlier tobaccos never jangle your nerves.

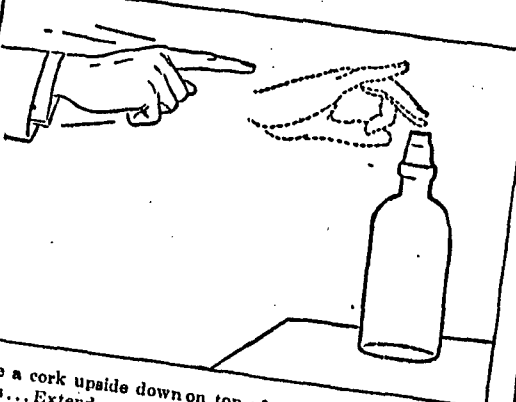

COSTLIER TOBACCOS

Camels are made from finer, MORE EXPENSIVE TOBACCOS than any other popular brand of cigarettes!

How are YOUR nerves?

TEST NO. 16

Place a cork upside down on top of a bottle... Back up six paces... Extend your right arm and sight with your index finger... Walk rapidly toward the bottle, without wavering your arm... See if you can knock off the cork with the first slip. Most people try this test six times before they succeed. Anton Lekang (Camel smoker), National 1932 ski jumping champion, slipped the cork off the first try.
